CONTENTS

I. CHAPTER TESTS, FORMS A-F, and FINAL EXAMINATION 1

There are six new test forms for each chapter and the final examination. All six test forms are modeled after the Chapter Tests of the textbook.

Included at the end of each chapter test and the final exams are both synthesis and technology-based exercises. The synthesis exercises are meant to be more challenging and they generally require students to go beyond the immediate objectives of the chapter. Synthesis exercises are separated from the main body of the test by a solid line. The technology-based exercises follow the synthesis exercises and are separated by a bold line. Both the synthesis and the technology-based exercises have been placed at the end of the tests to make them easy to omit if the instructor wishes to do so.
